If we could better what's in come
By brooding long and acting gloom—
We'd all be glooms.
Pain and despair are somber twins,
But they can't hurt the man who grins.
Cheer up.
This life is what we make it, and
Fate deals the crabs a losing hand,
And hope consumes.
We're only here a little while,
So let that while be one long smile.
Cheer up.

Mornings is a tie—when it isn't a noose.

The river at this point is rising rapidly,
with the gauge showing 35 feet this morning.

It is not likely that the water here will reach a stage of over 45 feet, if that, on the present rise. The snow having almost entirely disappeared and the ice in the river gone, there is no apparent danger of an extraordinary high river at this point from the present rise.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

THE brew that made Milwaukee famous also seems to have made that city grow. Its population has increased thirty-one percent. Wonder how large a growth the "dry" towns of the country have shown?"

THERE is hardly a person in Clark county who wants to be placed in the Seventh Congressional District. The political mess, which is a biennial affair, is now on, and has begun to smell wretched, lo, it stinketh!—Winchester Democrat.

PROBABLY the only regret which the ROOSEVELT managers feel about the scandalous steam-roller methods of the Federal machine in the contest for the Presidency is that they are not in possession of the machine themselves.—New York Press.

MR. ROOSEVELT's address before the Ohio Constitutional convention at Columbus removes him from the Republican party and makes it impossible that the nomination to be made at Chicago can go to him. From beginning to end there is not a Republican doctrine or profession of faith in the speech, but there is throughout a bold and defiant renunciation of the principles of that party. Mr. ROOSEVELT forswears allegiance to the party that made him President, and now takes the field as its enemy and destroyer.

No Longer a Republican.

It is an astonishing spectacle that this ex-President now presents to the view of the American people. But if he is to be a candidate, it is now clear that he must be named by some faction or as yet nameless remnant of what was once his party.—New York Times.

Dyspeptic Philosophy.

A dollar will go farther if you mail it than if you bet it.

Woman is only the weaker vessel before she is manned.

Many a political plum has turned out to be a lemon in disguise.

The fellow who depends on a train of thought doesn't always get there on time.

With all his faults the devil never puts off till to-morrow what he can do to-day.

If there is anything at all in a person, an ocean voyage will bring it out.

All women are riddles, and the plainer they are the more readily men give them up.

The typical modern man is a fine fellow, and a great improvement over his Uncle Ape, who never knew anything for certain except that he was hungry, and could do nothing creditable beyond running a foot race.

NICK LONGWORTH is now serving his last term in Congress as Cincinnati will repudiate him in no uncertain terms at the next election.

THE fight between TAFT and ROOSEVELT is going to be a battle of giants. The grinning Theodore with Napoleonic egotism, is going to have the walloping of his life. ROOSEVELT's ambition has over-leaped itself and he is simply blinded by his colossal self esteem. One may easily discount his finish.

WITHIN the next few months all the world will have an opportunity to see how a day is spent in the White House. President and Mrs. TAFT recently posed for a group of pictures and photographs were taken of them as they walked through the grounds of the executive mansion. The pictures taken will be combined with others and made into a sketch to be called "A Day in the White House."

PRESIDENT TAFT, it is said would refuse to be a candidate for re-election on a platform containing the THEODORE ROOSEVELT "charter of Democracy" if the court on a constitutional question should be subject to revision by the people of the state" and should declare for the recall of judges.

Chicago convention should hold that "the Roosevelt Platform" decision of a state

He would withdraw as a candidate for re-nomination if they should build a ROOSEVELT platform at Chicago on which TAFT could not stand and if he should decline re-nomination, there would be nothing to do but nominate ROOSEVELT, and the colonel would have his wish of being "drafted for service" gratified. But such a contingency is very remote.

THE child's world is bounded by the walls of the home. To the little child, father and mother are potentates and no king or queen has greater authority to utter a final word

The Child's World than parents have in the hearing of the child. How then can it be explained that little children are intractable, disobedient and obstinate? In nearly every instance of infantile rebellion parents have only themselves to blame. They have the little one under their hand from the hour of earliest consciousness and gentle authority never intermittent and always loving would make the child's world what it ought to be, a place of fullest sunshine. "Train up a child in the way he should go" signifies study of the child, sympathy with its joys and its griefs and understanding of its inexperience.

Matthew W. Harbeson, son of the millionaire founder of the brick trust and great-grandson of Robert Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, who was sent to jail for thirty days for stealing a loaf of bread, has been "erratic" ever since he fought a duel many years ago, his mother declared.

Recorder Medina, in Woodcliff, N. J., sentenced Harbeson on complaint of a grocer who saw him take a loaf from his bread box.

Harbeson, who married a maid in his mother's household, has five children and lives in one of the show places in Woodcliff, which his mother bought for him.

"Matthew has not been well since he was wounded in a duel at Kiel, university, where he studied many years," said Mrs. Harbeson. "It was the custom then to fight with sabers. He was the best swordsman in the university, and, to use a slang expression, was the 'goat' whenever his college had been offered an insult by another university.

"The most serious duel, the one in which he received so vicious a cut that the removal of a part of his skull was necessitated, arose when a German student insisted the Rhine was wider than the Hudson river. There were hot words and a challenge re-solved.

"There was no reason for his son's act other than his ill health, which has made him a trifle erratic. I have given him a good monthly income, besides paying all his running expenses and the interest on his property. I think his eccentricities are due to the many woods he received in his duels. He fought thirty-seven in all.

"I shall go to him at once and see what can be done. I deplore this notoriety. It hurts me terribly."

These Dancers Must Don Diving Suits

LOS ANGELES.—Society women of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Pasadena are planning a fete on the bottom of the ocean off Catalina Island early this spring. It is such a party that even Rome in its greatest days never saw the equal.

Walter Howison Pritchard, marine artist, is arranging details, and, according to him, guests are to be attired in diving suits, each with an oxygen tank or air tubes.

Catalina Island has been chosen for the affair because of the extraordinary clearness of the water and remarkable marine gardens at the bottom of the sea.

The bottom of the ocean will be illuminated by electric bulbs, and by a unique arrangement music from a band on a boat anchored overhead will be conveyed through the water, acting as a sounding board.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

Deserter's Story Preserved in Stone

CRANTON, PA.—After lying buried in the roots of a tree for more than a century, it is thought, a stone tablet bearing the confession of a revolutionary soldier's infamy has been found by William Sherer of this city. Sherer is a cripple, and, while wandering through the woods, near Rattlesnake Pond, in Spring Brook township, he accidentally brushed away the dirt from a piece of flagstone that caught his attention.

When the coating was removed the following inscription was exposed to Sherer's astonished eyes: "My name is John Nair. Born in 1747. I ran away from the battle of Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777, 134 years ago." Among the hundreds of persons who have viewed the tablet in a central city display window, there is no doubt that the inscription is genuine. The letters are the same color as the stone, a light brown, and there is a suggestion of freshness. It is generally believed that the carving was done soon after the historic incident mentioned in the inscription. It is a peculiar coincidence that Sherer made his discovery almost on the anniversary of the battle of Brandywine. The battle was fought Sept. 11, 1777, 134 years ago.

It is thought that John Nair, a deserter from the continental army, journeyed northward toward the Connecticut settlements and stopped to rest under the tree. In those days the nearest settlement to Rattlesnake Pond was historic Wyoming, about 25 miles to the south, and this region was a wilderness. In the quiet of the forest the fugitive probably yielded to a gnawing of conscience and wrote his confession upon the tablet. Whether he lived to tell it with his lips will probably never be known.

Keeps Ants in Bottle for Ten Years

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—Away up in the tower of St. Ignatius' college, where is situated the observatory and the sanctum of Father Odenbach, astronomer, are several hundred ants that have lived ten years in a bottle corked with an aluminum stopper, without any food save small pieces of sound quarter-sawed wood imbedded with water.

This somewhat unpalatable ration is served to the ants by Father Odenbach about once a month. And although commonly known as "white ants," the most destructive to wood, particularly to oak, of any known insects, they are really not ants at all, but termites and members of the "darning needle" family.

The bottle is nearly covered on the inside by a slimy, cement-like excretion given out by the insects in moving about. The bottle has been changed once during the ten years, and then because that which they first occupied was accidentally broken by the servant.

The particular "ants" Father Odenbach has come from Florida. Many have died, but others have been born, the number remaining about the same.

The bodies of those who die are eaten by the survivors and it is not infrequent for some of the insects to kill one another by the cannibalistic method.

Several instances where a species of the termites, differing but little from those in the bottle, has nearly caused great havoc and loss of life in Cleveland buildings, were given by Professor Odenbach. In one dry goods store he found the oak uprights supporting an entire department under which a number of girls were working, almost eaten through by the omnivorous insects.

Another case was that of a machine shop where uprights supporting the roof, pulleys and shafting had been hollowed out by the termites. They have a penchant for paper—it is like ice cream and cake to them, Father Odenbach says.

OLD FOLKS

Can Live Longer, Doctor Says

"Our rosiest old people do not live to be older," says a famous physician, "because they do not keep up their interest in life—why not to 'let go'?"

But when they are weakened through poor appetite and loss of sleep, you can't expect them to be so much interested in current events.

Let them first regain most of their former vigor, by using Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, on which so many elderly people depend for good health.

According to F. R. Schoen, Justice of the Peace, Elk Mountain, Wyo., his neighbor, Charles T. Bourk, 84 years old, was very sick and ready to give up, but Vinol put him on his feet again and now says: "Nothing ever helped me like Vinol—I could not do without it."

Vinol is sure to do you good if you are run down and weak—we guarantee this, and will pay back your money if you are not satisfied. J. C. Pecor, Druggist, Maysville, Ky.

Demand For Tobacco Land

There is a heavy demand among growers and tenants for tobacco land in this and surrounding Blue Grass counties. Since the improved conditions of the tobacco situation, as evidenced by the splendid prices received for the weed in Central Kentucky towns where there is a tobacco market and the indications are that this year's crop of tobacco will be a bumper one. The assured success of the ten-year pooling plan has also stimulated the tobacco growing industry which will tend to increase the acreage.
